As One Goes Around

When the war with Spain ended it found Havana's street car transportation lines powered by mules. However, it was not very long until a New York syndicate took over. The old street car lines, largely owned by Spanish bankers, were grabbed up. There were two rival groups of financiers after the Havana street car systems and they were in such haste to get in on the ground floor, they made a very serious mistake and one which they had to rectify, at great cost, afterwards. Down in Havana the sidewalks in the old portion of the city are not more than six inches above the cobbles in the street over which the immense one-mule carts roll. The northerners quickly acquired all the surface mule-drawn systems and began to prepare for installation of electric cars, but their troubles began as soon as they did. The streets were so very narrow, when it came to turning the corner of a block, it, in many cases, became necessary to buy the building and cut it away so as to allow the electric car to ease by, and then, only, by the most ingenious operation of the controller. In a great many instances it was found necessary to reroute the lines, as it was simply impossible to shave off enough of a building, which a mule-drawn street car squeezed by, to avoid missing it. Havanites are good patrons of tram cars and there is a big suburban country the trolleys cover, hence the New Yorkers eventually made money, despite their earlier mistakes. The street railway company got control of the electric lighting business of Havana as quickly as possible and it was not very long after they did, until their financial worries began to grow less.

He had just come in from the South Pacific where he had been in Naval hospitals and on hospital ships some time. The war had done a lot to him. He had soered a great deal and his hair had become quite gray. He told me, the other night in San Francisco, a lot of things about the war, but, naturally, I cannot repeat some of them. There is a naval shelter, off out there, he said, it is termed "Death Valley." Two small mountains run right down to deep water and there is ample room for a ship to berth. A hospital boat with 320 casualties aboard put in there to escape suicide Jap planes. My friend was in charge of a night shift and, of a sudden, taking a long chance to escape the mountain sides, a Jap plane struck the hospital ship. It caused upwards of 50 deaths among the injured men aboard and hurt a great many more. The Jap suicide plane operator, however, escaped with only minor injuries. He told American officers he had been employed at Manila and had been forced into service. He had not volunteered as a suicide plane aviator. He was given a big party before he started after the ship he attacked, but lacked gasoline to make a home trip. His story was, if a Japanese appeared a likely effective suicide plane operator, he was given no chance to refuse. One was picked and had to go. One way to make the Japs show valor came under my friend's observance on Iwo Jima and was hard to fathom at the start. Wave after wave of Japs came on and were mowed down. They manifested no regard for the rain of steel they rushed into. However the cause was discerned shortly afterwards. The Japs were given all the saki they could drink and then turned loose. Inflamed with the Japanese liquor the Naval man said, they would not hesitate, even if they had nothing more than a short sword or a dagger to fight with, to take on a tank operated by Americans. A bad feature, when Islands were being taken, was night sneak attacks. A small boat would steal into the darkness. It would have only one man aboard, but would be well supplied with bombs. The aim would be to try and get close enough to ram an American vessel. On other occasions two or three Japs would rig up a crude raft loaded with bombs and would maneuver it so as to try and steer it against an American ship. Instances of missions in which the man undertaking them understood he would forfeit his life, the Naval doctor told me, were many, but the Jap involved did not always volunteer. In almost 50-50 cases the victim was picked out and could not refuse.

FORT BRAGG Sept. 3.—Fort Bragg is proud of its volunteer fire department, for it is among the best in the state. Last week it received six calls for grass fires in and out of town, some of which would have been dangerous but for prompt service. The Forestry truck and equipment was out of town fighting the big fires northwest of Willits and under ordinary circumstances they would have taken care of the out-of-town fires. Our boys were called to put out three such fires and they responded without a whimper. It should also be remem-

It is the only building I can recognize in the big university plant and, today, it is not the most imposing one among its surrounding companion structures. I, naturally, because I used to attend Santa Clara College, get the University paper and I go through it to keep abreast of the times. The only building I can recall is No. 12 in the legend. It is called "The Ship." When I was a boy at Santa Clara I counted the days until I could sleep under its roof. I was too young to do so when I first went there, and I had to stay in The Second Division. As time went by the day came I was switched over to The First Division. The wash room was on the lower floor of the campus side of the big structure. Back of the wash room was the dormitory and on the second floor was the fine auditorium—in my kid time at Santa Clara we called it the opera house—and there appeared the most famous actors of their day. When a real stage celebrity—I recall Frederick Ward especially—used to come to the coast, invariably they would visit Santa Clara and give us a talk and, usually, a resume of their best features. Some words boys hear are indelibly imbedded in their memory. The day I listened to Frederick Ward who, in impressing on us a truth he wished to drive home when making an address to students, said: "Sooner would I doubt the prayers I learned to lisp at the knees of my mother." I could not begin to tell you how many times those lines have come back to me. Another building pictured that attracted my eye—was not there when I went to Santa Clara—It is "Kenna Hall" and was named after Father Edward Kenna, who became President of Santa Clara after I left there. He was a long-faced, kind-eyed Jesuit. Father Kenna was very tall and a very just man, one none of the kids could fib to when called before him. I can see him even now, as he used to walk under the roof of the refractory, reading his breviary. I am glad they named a building at Santa Clara University after Father Kenna.

George S. Bittman, of the Federated Smelting & Refining Company has a unique collection of photographs of members of the Fourth Estate of Redwood Empire communities. Mr. Bittman has a yen for photography and, on his trips into this part of the State, had every editor hereabouts pose for him, sitting at the editorial desk and, when the collection was complete, Mr. Bittman presented each editor of the Redwood Empire district a framed photograph of himself, showing the editor's desk in the "brain factory." The one of the sanctum of The Republican Press is particularly intriguing. Just as Mr. Bittman got ready to snap the camera, Represa, the dog of Editor O'Brien, walked over and placed his nose on Mr. O'Brien's lap and gazed up into his owner's face. It made an intensely human dog and master picture one of a kind that is rarely obtainable because of difficulty getting the dog to pose and, when once secured, is highly prized because of the rareness of dog affection manifested so unconcernedly as to be made possible to get a picture of.

Special Correspondence of The Press

HOPLAND Sept. 3.—Miss Marjory Phelps daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Mitchell, of Sacramento, and Staff Sergeant Marvin V. Dooley, of the famous "Bomber Barons" crew, were married at the home of the groom's parents in East Sanel at 9 a. m. Sunday in a private informal ceremony performed by Rev. W. R. Hazelton, of Cloverdale.

Home Handsomely Decorated.

The rooms were beautifully decorated with a profusion of early fall flowers and baskets of greenery. The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a light blue going away suit, a smart blue and white hat and the accessories were old rose and white. The bride's attendant was Mrs. Ada Osborne, sister of the groom; best man was Sergeant Robert Lunedren, of Santa Rosa, war buddy of Sergeant Dooley. The groom and best man wore their uniforms. Some 15 relatives and friends of the bride attended the ceremony from Sacramento while many friends, relatives and neighbors of the Dooley family were present to wish the happy young couple the best of luck. Sergeant Dooley met his bride in Sacramento several months ago where she was employed in an airplane factory.

Had Wedding Luncheon.

At the conclusion of the ceremony an elaborate wedding repast was served guests. The newlyweds left on an extended honeymoon which included Carmel-by-the-Sea, Monterey and Lake Tahoe. Hopland joins in wishing them the best of everything.

NO "HOME AGENT" IS WANTED IN LAKE CO.

(The Lakeport Bee)

The long campaign to have Mrs. Margaret Wurtzbaugh named home demonstration agent for Lake county ended at the last meeting of the board of supervisors. After a hearing on the subject in which interested persons were present, Supervisor John Pearce of Lower Lake made a motion money be appropriated for her expenses as home demonstration agent. The motion was lost for lack of a second. When the matter was first brought up the board, by a three to two vote, voted to put the expense money in the temporary budget. Cards sent out by the Lake County Taxpayers group brought back an overwhelming vote against the project or any added tax expense. This led to the supervisors taking the action above noted

ARE INDUCING MEXICANS TO THROW UP THEIR JOBS

Edgar W. Dutton, Chairman of the Farm Labor Association, has announced there will be an immediate re-assignment of Mexican Nationals who came here to take jobs on ranches of Association members. It has developed that non-Association members—those who did not participate in the work of bringing the Nationals here — have inaugurated a practice of inducing the Mexicans to quit the jobs on which they had been employed and take other harvest work which, it is claimed the Mexicans are induced to accept following non-Association members offering them an increase in pay for their work. These who have been imposed on by the job-sneaking tactics of non-Association ranchers threaten to call the offense, which is punishable under Federal law, to the attention of the United States Attorney.

WILLITS, Sept. 3.—Destruction of the Sage mill by fire has cast a pall on the community and some employes left town to look for other jobs. Superintendent Lawson, of the Rockport sawmill was here last week and stated he would like to borrow a few of the men, as the Rockport plant was running short-handed.

Directors Scattered.

Prospects for the future are still in doubt as the owners of the corporation live in the east and have not yet made a decision but it is hoped they will decide shortly.

No Start Made.

The insurance adjusters have made no attempt to settle claims with the companies carrying the risks and the burned mill and log piles are being left as they were until this matter is settled.

Weeds Crew Working.

Russell Ells, local manager of the Sage Land & Lumber Co., is keeping the woods crews busy and is stockpiling logs in the woods for the present. A few have been hauled to the Casteel mill in Willits but most are being left in the woods.

Chairman R. E. Collins Will Not Decide Until Later

Richard E. Collins, member of the State Board of Equalization from the Third District, Thursday said he wanted to deny reports he plans to retire on the expiration of his term at the end of next year.

Was Undecided.

Chairman Collins, who represents northern and north coastal counties, said he has not made up his mind whether he will run for re-election but he has made no definite decision to retire. He has been a member of the board 40 years and chairman 25 years.

Jerry Seawell To Run.

Jerrald L. Seawell, Roseville, president pro tempore of the State Senate, has announced he will run for Chairman Collins' position.

Is Holding Back.

Here in the western part of the district in which Mr. Collins will run, it is understood Executive Secretary William G. Shackleton, of the State Board of Equalization, whose headquarters are in Santa Rosa, intended to make the race, but that he will not. In all likelihood, go into the contest, if his Boss, Chairman Collins, is to be a contender.

Why He Hesitated.

Mr. Shackleton made it plain the only reason he had not announced arose through disinclination to oppose Chairman Collins. If Mr. Collins said he would not run, Mr. Shackleton stated, his announcement would be forthcoming at once.

ASYLUM FELON IS OPERATING IN LOS ANGELES

Harry Dunlap, Escapee From Talmage, In A Hold-up

GOT AWAY WITH $6000

Dressed In Uniform Of Milkman When Committing Crime

Harry Dunlap, "badge bandit," who escaped from the Mendocino State Hospital three weeks ago, held up an exclusive Wilshire Boulevard cafe in Los Angeles early Sunday and escaped with more than $6,000, according to police.

Dressed In Uniform.

Harry Dunlap, identified by pictures by cafe employes, entered the restaurant wearing a milkman's uniform, complete with cap. He went into the office of Mrs. Margaret King, bookkeeper-secretary, and strolled out nonchalantly several minutes later.

Used A Gag.

Employes said they entered Mrs. King's office and found her lying on the floor, gagged with a napkin and her wrists bound.

Who Suspect Is.

Harry Dunlap was one of the three murderers who escaped from Talmage three weeks ago. One of the escapees was picked up by a citizen here. At the time the companions of the fleeing inmate who was apprehended here, separated from him when near Willits. The discovery Harry Dunlap was following his old career as a bandit in Los Angeles was the first news of his whereabouts that had been received here since he fled from Talmage.

Looseness Shown.

The looseness of prison operation these days is reflected by the perfect detail of Convict Dunlap's moves at the time he maneuvered transfer from Folsom to Talmage, his plotting an ingenious escape from the Asylum and the perfectly planned hold-up of the Los Angeles Cafe. Of course Convict Dunlap was not insane. He had no more excuse for being confined at Talmage than he would have had to be escorted to the prison gate and been freed. Harry Dunlap is a desperate, sane criminal and he should not have been permitted to have been sent from Folsom to Talmage. His confinement place should be the most secure one the State has.

MANY WERE AT BELL CEREMONY

Historic Program At Old Fort Ross Was Real Magnet

Fort Ross, the historic spot, once an outpost in California of the old Russian Empire, was the setting Labor Day of an interesting ceremony, during which the more than century old Russian bell that once rang in the church at Fort Ross was returned to its home after an absence of more than a century.

Made Address Of Day.

Senator Herbert W. Slater, of Santa Rosa, was principal speaker for the occasion.

Brought Over In 1812.

The bronze bell, which weighs about 200 pounds and has a fine tone, is one of three brought to Fort Ross by the Russians in 1812. It was cast in Moscow.

Later On Sold.

In 1842 the Russians sold their property to Captain Sutter and left California. When Captain Sutter met with reverses the bell was sold to a San Francisco junk dealer who sold it to the Petaluma Volunteer Fire Department. It was finally given to Petaluma Parlor of the Native Sons, which has preserved it until now at Casa Grande, General Vallejo's old home near Petaluma.

Ukiahans Attended Ceremony.

Park Commissioner and Mrs. Charles Kasch, among other Ukiahans, were at Fort Ross during the ceremonies Monday afternoon.

VINEYARDISTS SEEK FEDERAL WINE BARRIER

Desire To Secure A Protective Label Of Superiority

WANT QUALITY SHOWN

Agree 1945 Selling Price Be Set At $120 A Ton

Dry wine grape growers of Mendocino, Sonoma, Santa Clara and San Benito counties united in San Francisco last week in formation of the Central Coast Counties Dry Wine Grape Growers Association, a new group to carry a fight for Federal recognition and protection of high-quality West coast, non-irrigated grapes and dry wines to Washington.

To Present Facts.

They elected Dewey Baldocchi, Santa Rosa vineyardist, president and Ed Valliant, Hollister grower, vice-president. J. N. De Meo, Santa Rosa attorney, was retained as legal counsel. He announced completion of a brief on dry wine production for presentation to Washington officials.

Set $120 A Ton Price.

The first official act of the new association was to recommend a minimum price of $120 a ton for non-irrigated dry wine grapes grown in Central California coast counties, citing cost of production and the comparatively low per acre yield of their product as basis for the suggested price. This figure, they pointed out, parallels that of last year, whereas production costs, in many respects, have increased. Similar action had been taken previously by dry wine grape growers protective associations in the individual counties forming the new organizations.

Ask A Designation.

In addition to the fight for the tonnage price figure, the group mapped plans to seek permanent Federal recognition of this California district as a choice dry wine grape growing area, as already recognized by California legislation. Mr. Baldocchi pointed to provisions of the California Beverage Act, a section of which limits use of the wording "California Central Coast Counties Dry Wines" to wines produced exclusively from grapes grown in the non-irrigated dry wine grape growing area, and said it will be the policy of the new association to demand permanent Federal recognition paralleling this.

Attending From Here.

Those attending from Mendocino county were Vincent Giorno, Al Cantaroni and W. A. German.

MILL DISPUTE BRINGS A SUIT

Holden-Rodgers Co. Take Claims Into Local Court

Rumors of disagreements among stockholders in the Holden mill at Willits have been recently heard and this week a suit was filed against Ed. H. Rodgers et al and judgment asked for a little over $20,000. San Francisco attorneys appear for those instituting the litigation. Various allegations of so-called mismanagement are set forth in the complaint. The mill represents an outlay of something in the neighborhood of $15,000 and is a very complete plant.

Have Fine Option.

The Rodgers interests are said to have obtained a very attractive option on a fine stand of Redwood timber on Big River, owned by Frank Williams, agreeing to pay for the timber at stated periods. Something in the neighborhood of between $10,000 and $15,000 has already been paid on the option. The final all-sale agreement payments aggregate $90,000, Mr. Williams to receive the sums in yearly payments.

May Be Settled.

It is believed some method will probably be worked out so as not to stop operation of the mill.

CEREMONIES A SURPRISE FOR BIG GATHERING

Thousands Praise Appearance Of Local Airfield

30 AIRPLANES CALLED

Venison Feed Enjoyed At The Park—Annual Event

There were 30 planes at the Airport, Dedication Monday, civilian, Army and Naval ships, some coming from as far away as Modesto to participate, the latter privately owned.

Great Many Attend.

The crowd at the airport was equal to any out-pouring ever witnessed at any event held here. Mayor Lloyd Bittenbender officiated for the City of Ukiah and an interesting talk was made by Bob Schmidt, of the Aeronautics Bureau.

Had A Banquet.

The night before the dedication a venison barbecue was held at the City Park with Trustee Wildberger in charge and greatly enjoyed by many visitors. The Chamber of Commerce, those interested in flying and businessmen worked in harmony to make the affair the big success it turned out to be.

To Be Annual Affair.

It has been decided to hereafter hold an airplane program at the local field annually at Labor Day time.

Much Has Been Done.

Conditions at the local airfield have practically revolutionized the port since the advent of the Bittenbender administration. The field has been improved and kept in excellent shape; the beacons have been kept lit and the fine residence, which had been permitted to go almost to ruin, through having fertilizer stored in it, has been repaired and placed in excellent shape. A manager for the airfield, at no expense to the city, has been secured and at the present time some 35 Ukiah residents are learning to fly. Plans now are to erect eight hangars and these, while being paid for by the City, will be rented and revenue derived therefrom.

Took Much Work.

Getting the airport out of the slump into which it had been permitted, through neglect, to get into, began when Trustees Theresa Ray took hold as head of the Airport committee and has been continued in a very satisfactory way after Mayor Bittenbender became Mrs. Ray's successor. For more than a month now the beacon on the hill west of the City has been lighted. It is claimed by many aviators that, had the beacon been lighted the night the big Navy plane crashed in the hills of Anderson Valley, the disaster would not have resulted.

THE DAYS FOR BEING BARKED AT ARE OVER

The time is now at hand when long-suffering Mr. and Mrs. Jones of Main street can soon let off some of the steam pent up since December 7, 1941.

Mrs. Jones can walk right up to the counter of her department store and interrupt a gossip fest between salesgirls without hearing that familiar refrain:

"Don't you know there's a war on?"

Mr. Jones can drive into the filling station and expect to have his windshield washed, his tires and battery checked as he utters those magic words:

"Fill 'er up!"

Mrs. Jones can even request delivery of her groceries once more, and she may hear a clerk say "Thank you."

The Jones family can go to a restaurant, and watch the reconversion of waiters from wartime insolence to peacetime courtesy.

If Mrs. Jones doesn't like the way the cleaners did her dress, she can send it back, and receive no back-talk.

She can go back to all those places where she's been barked at for the last three years and say:

"Don't you know the war's over?"

And isn't it a grand and glorious feeling?

Harry D. Roberts returned the last of the week from a business trip of several days to San Francisco.

ANDERSON VALLEY, Sept. 3.—Mrs. A. Roux, of Navarro, suffered a stroke Sunday last and is in very serious condition at her home there. Dr. R. A. Scudder, of Fort Bragg, was called but gave the family very little encouragement for the patient's recovery. Mrs. Nichols' valley nurse, has been assisting in caring for Mrs. Roux, who has suffered from high blood pressure over a long period of time and has feared a stroke.

At Rawles Ranch.

Mr. and Mrs. Vernon R. Rawles have had as guests over the past week, their son's wife, Mrs. Robert Rawles, and her friend, Miss Vivian Thorne. Mrs. Rawles plans to return this week for a few days longer stay at the family home here.

R. A. Tolman lost a valuable sheep dog Tuesday of last week. She was thought to have been poisoned, but all efforts at the Veterinary Hospital in Ukiah failed to save her, although she was fed intravenously and penicillin was used in treating her.

Miss Ann Prather, daughter of the William Prathers, of Rockport, is here visiting her friend, Edwina Knivila, daughter of the E. N. Knivilas.

On A Short Visit.

Mrs. Ernest Rawles, of Oakdale, a valley visitor, is a guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Wallach. She came up with her husband's sister, Mrs. Sam Babcock, of Auburn. Mr. Rawles will join her here this week.

McAbee Ranch Guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Clair McAbee, of Novato, were guests at the G. E. McAbee home Thursday. Clair could not let hunting season pass without a try for a deer. Marian McAbee, daughter of the G. E. McAbees, who has been visiting her cousins, Kay and Clarissa, for the past two weeks, returned with them Thursday. Mr. and Mrs. Clair McAbee are former residents of this valley. For the past six months Clair has been a guard at San Quentin prison and finds the work interesting.

Telephone Changes.

Fred A. Rawles, President of the Boonville Rural Telephone Co., called a special meeting of the stockholders of the company for Monday evening at the Anderson Valley High School. Five directors of the company were to be elected and a contract with the Pacific Telephone & Telegraph Company relative to installation of a dial method, to replace the present system, was up for consideration. It is understood that, if the dial system is installed, the local office will be discontinued and a dial will be installed at Cloverdale to handle long distance calls. Hopland and this valley are the only places in the county, due for the change to dials.

In Japan Surrender.

At least one Anderson Valley serviceman is presumed to be with General MacArthur in the air landing on Japan. He is Sergeant Porter Willis, who is with the 11th Airborne troops which have been in the Philippines and have now landed in Japan. The men have been through the thick of it all with General MacArthur and it seems fitting they should be in on the surrender. Probably other men from here will be in the landing but at this time Sergeant Willis is the only one whose division we have heard mentioned as being landed. He is the younger son of Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Willis.

DEMOCRATIC POLITICS

(The San Francisco Examiner)

PRESIDENT TRUMAN, in placing the blame for the Pearl Harbor disaster upon "the policy which the country itself pursued"—in other words, upon the American people rather than upon the derelictions of military or civil authorities—was talking politics rather than facts—and strictly DEMOCRATIC PARTY politics.

The Democratic Party record, particularly over the prewar years when the stage for the Pearl Harbor disaster was being set, surely NEEDS a defender.

But Mr. Truman should remember that he is the President of the United States, and not just a Democratic Party politician.

The Pearl Harbor disaster was a DEMOCRATIC PARTY disaster, a ROOSEVELT disaster.

The Democratic Party was in power IN ALL BRANCHES OF GOVERNMENT for ten years BEFORE Pearl Harbor, and did nothing whatever in the way of preparedness for the clearly impending war with Japan.

President Roosevelt, the Democratic President to whom the Democratic Congress was entirely subservient, would not and DID NOT recommend fortifying the Philippines until it was too late to do it effectively—in fact, too late to do it at all.

Mr. Roosevelt apparently failed to fully recognize the menace of Japan until a few days before Pearl Harbor.

If he did recognize it, why did he allow Japan to be supplied from America with the essentials for war AGAINST this country?

Why did he neglect to recommend the necessary measures for the DEFENSE of this country?

There was no lack of effort on the part of the public to call the attention of the Democratic Congress and the Democratic Party and the Democratic President to the necessity for preparations for war with Japan.

The Hearst newspapers alone filled hundreds of columns with warnings.

But nothing was done by the Democratic Congress or the Democratic President to PREVENT the war, or to PREPARE for the war.

On the contrary, everything that WAS done was in the nature of supplying Japan with the material to MAKE war.

President Truman now says the country itself was not ready for preparedness.

The country was much MORE ready than either Congress or the President.

In any event, it was the BUSINESS of the President and of the Congress to wisely LEAD the country—and to be aware of impending dangers and to prepare to MEET them.

This is one of the chief reasons representatives of the people are elected to Congress and to the position of Chief Excutive—and Commander in Chief of the military forces—the affiliation which President Roosevelt like Marshal Stalin so dearly loved.

President Truman says that when President Roosevelt tried to get a preparedness program through Congress it was "stifled."

President Roosevelt found the power and the means to FORCE through Congress all manner of CRACKPOT SOCIALIST plans and policies which cost the Nation many times more than it would have cost to prepare the country for the inevitable war which every far-sighted statesman knew would soon be upon us.

It is too bad he could not find means—or perhaps inclination—to compel his vest pocket Congress to provide preparedness for war.

Such a program of national preparedness, perhaps, was not CRACKPOT ENOUGH to appeal to that distinguished visionary.

The people WANTED preparedness without any doubt.

But President Roosevelt's policy was not to give the people what THEY wanted but what HE wanted.

No, the President's programs were never "stifled" by cowardly and subservient Democratic Congresses.

The President's programs were made into laws as he ASKED for them to be made—"without regard to whether they were Constitutional or not."

Perhaps preparedness was TOO constitutional to please President Roosevelt.

Perhaps it belonged to the "horse and buggy days" of Washington and Jackson and Lincoln and McKinley.

However that may be, President Roosevelt was NOT "villified," as President Truman now says, for warning of the necessity for preparedness—because he did NOT warn, and apparently did not have the foresight to see the NECESSITY for preparedness.

If he did see it, was it not almost treasonable of him to permit the United States to ship to Japan the basic material for war AGAINST THE UNITED STATES?

President Truman is a bad judge of the intelligence of the American people, if he thinks the Democratic Party's responsibility for American unpreparedness and for the Pearl Harbor disaster can—by mere assertion and repetition be imposed upon the shoulders of the loyal and long suffering American people.

OLD WORLD REFLECTIONS

IN THE WINDOW of a neighborhood bank the eye of a passer-by was caught by a sign saying that even in a new world, still good were the homely virtues of Honesty, Frugality, Industry and Thrift. What does it mean? Honesty always was a virtue. Uprightness and integrity have formed the base of a good life since long before a Latin poet sang his eulogy of wholeness of life. That a man's word is as good as his bond has always been high praise. Frugality? If it means plain living and high thinking, it is a virtue. If it means balanced use of income so that it goes around evenly, leaving no side of life unprovided for, it's good. But if it means penny-pinching stinginess, letting money mean more than life, it is a vice which corrodes and ruins well-being. Industry? Good if it means doing necessary work promptly and cheerfully leaving time for leisure and intellectual growth. If it means grubbing all the time, never getting through or seeing over the top, it's a vice. Thrift, if it contributes to orderly and well-balanced life, is indeed a virtue. It is not the wastrel who helps his fellow-man. The wastrel never has anything to help with. He's an unhappy soul too. The woman who "fears not the cold of the snow, for her household are clothed in scarlet," is happy as well as useful. The homely virtues are still good. But balance and order lead them all.

MERITS APPROVAL

FREIGHT TRAINS NOW LEAVE American terminals at the rate of one every five seconds day and night, and under practices developed with approval of the Interstate Commerce Commission no shipper using any of these trains need deal with more than one railroad, even though his shipment moves 3,000 miles over the rails of several connecting lines. By investigating and approving vast numbers of rate and service agreements between carriers the I. C. C. has assured to every shipper the reasonable and non-discriminatory rates and the integrated services essential to the free and economical flow of commerce. Such practices conform to the established policies of Congress.

These satisfactory methods now are being challenged by the Department of Justice under the theory that compliance with Federal anti-trust laws demand unregulated competition between surface carriers. Under this theory each carrier would make its own rates and originate its services without lawful right to consult with any other carrier or with shippers.

Obviously such practices must destroy the present fine and desirable co-ordination of transportation. Congress has before it the Bulwinkle bill H. R. 2536. As passage of this bill would preserve the advantages of the present I. C. C. regulations without weakening the force of the anti-trust laws against unapproved non-competitive carrier agreements, it has gained unanimous support from California's shippers, the California Railroad Commission, the Farm Bureau and other organizations interested in preserving good service. We think the bill merits this approval and endorse it in principle.

A FRUIT UNION IS ORGANIZED

CIO Succeeds In Getting An Entering Wedge In Lake

(The Lakeport Bee)

Threatening strikes in pear sheds throughout Lake county were averted Wednesday when shed operators signed contracts with the Food, Tobacco, Agricultural and Allied Workers of America, Local 78, affiliated with the CIO Union. The contracts are for a year, ending May 31, 1946.

What Contracts Provide.

Essential features of the contracts are the fact the contracts protect non-union members, local pear workers do not have to join the union and, in other words, sheds are being operated as open shops.

The First Step.

This is the first time, in the history of Lake county, a Union contract has been signed by pear sheds but the action was necessary to offset a strike and the loss of one of the county's largest pear crops. The contracts carry a Union wage scale and provide no strikes will be called. Union organizers were in the county to complete the details of the contracts to the satisfaction of all concerned and sheds are now operating at peak production.

Rate Of Shipments.

Some 60 carloads of pears are being shipped daily from the county.

INTERCITY LINE AT LAST GIVEN PERMIT

The Intercity Transport Lines, operating out of the Bay section and running its trucks as far as Coos Bay, Oregon, after a fight which has extended over a number of years, has been granted a permit by the State Railroad Commission to do business from San Francisco to all points from the Bay into Oregon along Redwood highway. In other days its permit allowed delivery, starting at San Francisco, after Longvale was reached. The last order of the Railroad Commission permits the Intercity Transport Co. to operate as a common truck carrier from San Francisco straight through and, where it was not, in the past, allowed to do business in the intervening towns between here and San Francisco and between Ukiah and Longvale, such permission has now been obtained. The Intercity Company has established a depot at 312 North Main street and has Telephone 145.

CAP-HANDLING BOY'S EYESIGHT IS INJURED

Handling a dynamite cap he had gotten hold of, in some manner not entirely explained, Clifford Yaple was badly injured the end of the week and has been taken to Stanford-Lane Hospital. The boy's father works for the Railroad Company. Before being taken to San Francisco the little victim was ministered to by Dr. E. C. Bennett at Ukiah General Hospital and there the boy said he had found the "capsules" and that one of them had exploded. The boy's injuries consist of a shattered thumb and finger on the left hand, but the more serious injuries are the lad's eyes into which flew particles of the cap casings. Dr. Bennett hopes that, by use of a magnet, the embedded metal may be drawn out.

Mr. Niderost asserts he did have a license, but that it was lost in the wrecking of the truck.

DESERTER HAS A LONG RECORD

Man Fleeing Southern Army Post Captured Near Willits

Werner Wydelko, who admits he is AWOL from the army and has a long record of petty crimes behind him, was caught near Willits Monday night only a few minutes after he stole a car belonging to A. E. Crouch from in front of the Crouch home on Mendocino street.

Witnessed The Theft.

"Mr. Crouch saw his car going down the street and immediately reported it to the police. Curt Hollingsworth, who takes over the job of Chief of Police here tomorrow, was not on duty but happened to be available so he set out after the car thief. On his radio, he called all police officers and notified them of the theft as he started south at high speed. Near the Howard Park Forestry office, he saw the car he was after and gave his siren a toot. Mr. Wydelko immediately drove to the roadside and stopped," says The Willits News in its story of the case.

Had Deserted Service.

Upon being questioned Mr. Wydelko readily admitted he had stolen the car in Willits and was AWOL from the army. He was taken to the county jail and held pending the filing of charges by the district attorney's office.

Pair Went Along.

W. D. Ford and Frank Butts happened to be with Mr. Hollingsworth at the time of the incident and went along on the chase, so they were witnesses to the young man's confession. Later the sheriff's office checked up on the prisoner and the records showed the man had run away from the army in Louisiana and stolen a car in Shreveport which he drove to Dallas and abandoned. He worked his way to the coast in that manner, stealing a car when he could and running it until he had no more gas and then abandoning it. The last one before he came to Willits was stolen in Sacramento and it was left alongside the highway about eight miles north of Willits. A deputy went up and recovered this car the day after Mr. Wydelko's arrest.

Upon leaving the Navy it is believed both Dr. Rappaport and Dr. Toller will be reinstated in their old positions as heads of State Institutions, but just where is uncertain.

Sidelights of Sadness

Being incidents connected with California's State Prisons as observed by A. R. O'Brien, editor of The Republican Press, while chairman of the State Board of Prisons of California

THE PENALTY FOR IT WAS DEATH!

It was, I believe, the greatest penalty ever paid by a man for executing a prerogative the law plainly provided it was his right to perform. It, too, was a demonstration of the workings of an evil mind to an extent demanding the fullest punishment should be administered, and the punishment demand was overlooked. The man was a beast, normally, and, when inflamed by liquor, was a menace to society, in addition. I recall going into the case very thoroughly. He was about 50 years of age and he was married. His wife was a frail, crippled woman, while her husband, who was a machinist by trade, was a powerful person. He took his politics seriously and he was prone to engage in long, political arguments and to make vicious accusations against leaders of a political party whose views he did not share. His wife had arthritis and, from the ravages of the disease she was afflicted with, had suffered so greatly her limbs and her hands were twisted and she could navigate, only, with great difficulty. When her husband was in a rage, occasioned by over-indulgence in liquor, he abused her to the extent neighbors could, beforehand, predict the unfortunate wife was due for a severe physical mistreatment but, because of the savage nature of the man and the fact he was a person of almost herculean strength, men who lived in the immediate section, who heard the turmoil, refrained from going to the cripple's rescue, knowing it would mean a personal conflict. With the background of this man, more or less as I have related it to you, I am going to take you to the scene of the crime the prisoner committed and I want to call your particular attention to the fact that, always in the past, when he was intent on harming some one, he was bent on attacking, the murderer had recourse to boisterous language. At the time of the murder I am going to tell you about, he assumed an exact opposite attitude. He had been out hunting and returned home in the early evening. Without any display of undue emotion the murderer went quietly into the private office of a man who operated a garage. As far as officers could ascertain there had been no trouble between the killer and his victim. No voices were raised in the office the two men were alone in at the time. It was brought out, as evidence, the prisoner very deliberately went about what he had planned to do and, only because the office door, which was open, and happened to be passed by a man employed in another part of the business house just at the time the only few words that were uttered were being spoken by the killer and the murdered man, was the State able to get any knowledge, of any character, regarding what might have been the cause for creating the irritation which swept the murderer beyond reason. The man with the rifle, as he approached the desk at which his victim was sitting, writing, asked the man he was to murder a few seconds later a question. The slayer waited for a reply. He listened, quietly, to what the man he had just interrogated, had time to make reply to, and then hesitated briefly. Deliberately he raised his weapon and shot the defenseless man through the head. I am going to tell you what I believe was accepted by the murderer as the most far-fetched justification I ever heard of for taking another man's life. Here is what the man happening to pass the open door, just at the moment the short conversation between the two men took place, heard. The murderer said: "Are you for Mr. Landon for President?" The answer from the man slain a few seconds afterwards was: "Yes, I am." Then the rifle bullet tore through the victim's head and he fell from the chair on which he had been sitting.

That man was not hanged, as he certainly should have been. He was well cared for in a penitentiary several years, then liberated. The crippled wife and the woman who was made a widow by the murderer, suffered infinitely more than did the slayer, who should have been executed without delay.

He Stood High.

Pvt. Sawyers also took third place, in field target practice, out of 120 men. He scored 187 out of 200. The winner scored 195. This was very good shooting and Mr. Sawyer thinks he will be a good prospect for the army of occupation.

Many Accidents Reported.

Highway accidents are more numerous than they have been for many months, since gas rationing ended, according to Traffic Officer Fred Hamilton. He investigated 13 accidents last week, but fortunately no person was seriously injured but several cars were wrecked.

Trapped In Car.

Lawrence Bergevin, of Branscomb, lost control of his car near Owen's Pleasure Camp, about 12 miles north of Willits. His car ran across the wide highway at that point and clear down into Outlet Creek, into a hole where there was about six feet of water. Mr. Bergevin was trapped inside the car, which was submerged, and he had to kick out one of the windows in order to escape drowning in the car. He walked back to Hilvilla, where he got Walter Thayer to bring him to Willits to the hospital.

Car Turned Over.

About noon Wednesday, a man who said his name was Godby, with his wife and three small children in the car, had a narrow escape in an accident about half a mile north of the Farmhouse Inn. Due to excessive speed, according to Officer Hamilton, the Godby car swerved on a turn and crossed the road. After hitting the bank it turned over and landed upside down on the wrong side of the road, end for end. None of the passengers were hurt seriously. E. E. Elliott towed the wreck to Laytonville.

Four Escape Luckily.

Two young servicemen from Camp Parks, both members of the Seabees, were traveling north with their wives last Saturday night to see the redwoods. Godfrew S. Edson was driving and W. S. Milliken was with him. Mr. Edson went to sleep about two miles north of Laytonville and ran off the road. His car hit a telephone pole and tore out quite a stretch of fencing before it came to a stop. The car was a wreck, but the two young men and their wives were only shaken up. They went on up to the redwoods the next day and their car was towed back to Laytonville by E. E. Elliott.

CHINESE MARKET IS LIKELY TO RE-OPEN

It will not be very long, according to reports heard here, until the lower floor of the Gibson Hotel building, on North State street, which, at the start of the war, was occupied by a Chinese Market, will be re-opened. When war hostilities began so many of the clerks employed in the business place enlisted, it was not possible to secure help to operate the Market and the owners decided to retain the lease and restart after the war was over. The owners of the Market are said to have enjoyed a brisk trade and were well satisfied. Just when the re-opening will take place is not known, but it is believed it will not be long.

LIQUOR LICENSE IS GRANTED THE LODGE

A liquor license has been granted the Eel River Park and Lodge, conducted by Mr. and Mrs. Wilber Sharp. In the past The Lodge has served beer and wine to patrons but business so increased and so many calls for liquor have been made by guests it became necessary to handle additional lines. The Eel River Mill colony has grown considerably and a properly conducted place liquor is sold will likely prove a profitable one. The Inn has always been well conducted and no trouble with enforcement officers is likely to result from Mr. Sharp handling liquor on the river.

At State Theatre, Sunday And Monday

HOLIDAY TRAFFIC ON HIGHWAY WAS HEAVY

Automobile traffic over Redwood Highway Labor Day was heavier than it has been for a long time. All auto court reservations were exhausted early, the hotels were forced to turn prospective guests away and service stations did heavy business. Restaurants sold out all food they had in a short time and there was considerable dissatisfaction expressed by travelers who were unable to get lunches. Late Monday night Redwood Highway was crowded by autoists making belated returns to the Bay cities.

DEATH CAUSE IS NOT KNOWN

Belief Is Pat Donohoe Was Killed In Fall From Bluff

Practically nothing to definitely establish the manner in which Pat. Donohoe, coast woodsman, met his death two weeks ago near Mendocino, has developed.

Murder Theory Dropped.

In the meantime the theory Mr. Donohoe was murdered has been generally discarded. It is true the victim had a number of abrasions on his chest and that he suffered internal injuries, but, it is contended, Mr. Donohoe may have suffered the evidences of the cause of his death by a fall and this, in all probability, will eventually be accepted as the cause of death.

Story Of Drinking Heard.

Officers at Mendocino are said to have discovered Mr. Donohoe had been drinking when last observed about town and, in all probability, they contend, he may have sometime during the night suffered a fatal fall.

What Is Known.

All of the known facts are contained in the following story regarding the case as they appeared in The Mendocino Beacon:

"Two small boys, Peter and Richard Mathiesen, while playing near the mouth of the river came across the body of a man lying on the sand-bar skirting the entrance to the bay. The boys lost no time in making their way to town and stopped at Sutherland's Garage where they told of their find.

Body On Sandbar.

"At low tide a large sandbar forms at the mouth of the river and sometimes it is several feet higher in the center than at the water's edge. The body was found rather toward the center and it showed it had been left there by receding waters of a high tide as the shoulders had dug into the sand forming a shallow pocket from which the water was unable to dislodge it. Men from town went to the scene and at the time no one seemed to be able to identify the remains but, upon arrival of Deputy Coroner Ward Reiss, an investigation showed the corpse to be that of Pat Donohoe, who had been employed at Caspar some time. A receipt for payment of union dues showed who he was.

Killed By Fall.

"Mr. Donohoe had been in Mendocino Tuesday evening and had spent several hours visiting friends. From that time on no one seems to know just where he went. From all appearances it is presumed he had lost his bearings and had fallen over the bluff. Death was not due to drowning, as an autopsy showed no water in Mr. Donohoe's lungs, but he had sustained several broken ribs and was otherwise internally injured. The body had not been in the water for any length of time.

Relatives Unknown.

"As far as is known, he leaves no relatives."

Cause Of Death.

An autopsy performed Thursday showed Mr. O'Donohoe died from a blow which had crushed his chest, broken ribs and ruptured his liver, but gave no evidence of how or by what means the injuries had been inflicted.

Showed No Attack Mark.

The most puzzling feature is that, with the exception of a scratch on one wrist, the body showed no marks or bruises. Dr. Dale Barber, of Fort Bragg, was the autopsy surgeon.

ESTATE APPRAISED

The estate of the late Mrs. Emma Frances Cureton, of Willits, has been appraised at $13,066.75. Judge Will Van Dyke is attorney for the estate.

Coombs of Napa, in recognition of his services in sponsoring the original Golden Gate Bridge legislation before the State Legislature in 1923, was voted unanimously by the directors of the bridge district at their recent meeting in San Francisco. A. R. O'Brien, of Ukiah, Board President, conveyed the message to Nathan Coombs, son of the late leader at Napa and himself a member of the bridge directorate. The memorial resolution, which records that Frank L. Coombs introduced the first legislation for organization of the bridge district, was introduced before the directorate by Congressman Richard J. Welch, of San Francisco. An embossed copy of the resolution will be presented to Nathan Coombs later.

Jeb Wilkins loses the wanderlust

Jeb Wilkins was always a great one for traveling. Two weeks a year he used to cover more ground than a Pullman conductor. Used to come back from vacations tuckered out.

But the war has changed all that. Gasoline shortages—and saving space on trains for service men—has got Jeb spending his vacations home . . . and liking it!

"Never knew staying home could be such fun," says Jeb. "Outdoor barbecues . . . sitting around and chatting with the kids and family . . . backing in the sunshine with a glass of cold beer . . . that's living," Jeb says.

From where I sit, Jeb's discovered what millions of other Americans have learned through the war. Whether your choice is beer or buttermilk . . . horseshoes or checkers . . . a quiet book or a bit of friendly conversation . . . there's no place like home . . . where we grumble the most and get treated the best!

MANY ATTEND REBEKAH'S CEREMONIES

Olive E. Busch, Deputy District President of District 68, Rebekah Assembly of California, accompanied by Edith Alger, Deputy District Marshal, paid her official visit to Redwood Rebekah Lodge No. 390 Tuesday evening. Other members of the party were Rose Gibson, Treasurer of Cornelia Rebekah Lodge No. 205, and Opal Tuttle, Past Noble Grand of Redwood Rebekah Lodge. Mrs. Alger drove her car and took the group of Lodge members to Boonville. The Ukiah-Boonville road was probably never in better condition than at present and the trip over the hill was made without incident.

Although the time was at the very height of harvest season, a large number of lodge members were present to greet the visitors from Ukiah. Esther Cardey, Noble Grand, conducted the meeting in a very efficient and dignified manner.

All officers were attractively attired in beautiful and becoming evening gowns. The capable and well-trained officers performed the ritualistic work in a very able and decorous form.

Mrs. Augusta Ruddock has served as secretary of the Lodge for many terms and is a very competent and conscientious official.

The semi-annual report of the Lodge showed Redwood Rebekah Lodge No. 390 had contributed $132.10 to the Grand Lodge project of building an Occupational Therapy wing to Veterans' Hospital at Yountville.

Mrs. Edith Alger is a Past Noble Grand of Cornelia Rebekah Lodge and is well versed in the ritualistic work of the Order. She escorted and introduced the District Deputy President in a very graceful and ceremonious manner. In her talk, Mrs. Busch said she greatly admired the alliterative title of the Lodge and had often wondered who suggested it. It was stated the name was bestowed on the organization by Mrs. I. C. Burke. Mrs. Busch said she had looked forward with pleasure to this reunion with the friends of a lifetime and with some of her former pupils.

Among those present was Mrs. Delcima Rawles, a charter member of the Lodge, who is now in in her eighty-eighth year. She represents one of the first families of the valley. Her husband's father, Joseph Rawles, bought the property of Walter Anderson, for whom the valley was named and the place is still owned by members of the family. Mrs. Rawles said at one time her father, Samuel McAbee, owned every house in Boonville, but one. Mrs. Rawles was the District Deputy President's supper partner.

Mrs. Jennie Clay was in attendance and wore the Past Noble Grand's beautiful regalia with its golden emblem which the Lodge presented her at the celebration of her golden wedding a few years ago. Mrs. Alice Gowan, Past District Deputy President, was present and is now serving as Chaplain. Mrs. Ella Hogan, Past Noble Grand and mentor of the Lodge, helped to direct affairs of the evening. Mrs. Busch was pleased to have this opportunity to renew long standing friendships with Mrs. Laura Ogle, Mrs. Josie Gowan, Mrs. Aldah Hotel, Mrs. A. B. Willis, Mrs. Reilly and others and to meet Mrs. Harry Richmond, wife of a former pupil.

Delicious refreshments were served at the close of the meeting by a committee of Lodge members.

Light Up for Youthful Seeing

Did you fall asleep last night, halfway through your reading? Did the print seem to disappear right through the paper? Do not blame it all on the hard day you had at work or that you think you may be getting old. The chances are that the lighting was to blame!

This is a good time of the year to check on the lighting in your home. Get rid of blackened bulbs, root out and replace the small-sized bulbs that have been put into the lamps you read and work by. And when there are students doing homework at night, make certain they have the best of study light for concentrated eye work. Good light for study is so vital because—one of every FIVE children in grade schools suffers from impaired vision and TWO out of every FIVE college graduates have defective sight. Light up for youthful seeing as fall days darken into winter.

HAY RIDE ENJOYED BY BAPTISTS

A hay ride last Thursday evening, preceded a potluck supper at the Baptist church, given and attended by members of the Mariners' Club. About 30 members enjoyed the ride, which was taken in Ray White's new truck, and returned with appetites sufficiently sharpened to make noticeable inroads in corn, chili beans, several different kinds of salads, deviled eggs, hot rolls, coffee and watermelon which they were served. After supper, the group adjourned to the home of Ray White, adjacent to the church, and played table games for the remainder of the evening. Added entertainment was given by Charles Cook who played the guitar and sang for the group. The Bell System—the largest source of Radar for our fighting forces

This is not surprising for Radar development and production stems from the same roots that produced and continue to nourish this country's telephone system.

Radar, the instrument which enabled our land, sea and air forces to spot enemy targets through darkness, smoke or fog, was one of the outstanding fighting instruments of the war.

Two years before Pearl Harbor the Government asked Bell Telephone Laboratories to put its wide experience and knowledge of electronics to work to help perfect Radar as a military instrument. From then on the Laboratories cooperated closely in the Radar program with the National Defense Research Committee, with Army and Navy specialists, and with scientists of Great Britain.

The Western Electric Company, manufacturing branch of the Bell System, became the Nation's largest supplier of Radar systems. One type it made was universally used by B-29's in the Pacific for navigation, target location and high altitude bombing. Another played an important part in aiming the guns on our warships.

If you're waiting for a home telephone, it helps a little to know that Radar is one of the reasons. For years telephone manufacturing plants were devoted to war needs.

CONGRESSMAN ON THE COAST

Representative Gets To Santa Rosa In The End

When the quick surrender of Japan came, official matters at Washington were at sixes and sevens and there was a misunderstanding regarding when and how long Congress would continue in session.

Put Off Trip.

At that time the story came out Congressman C. F. Lea would remain in Washington and that his usual Fall trip to this part of the state would have to be foregone. To confirm this came a later notice apparently confirming his inability to be here.

Is Now Here.

Now, to further complicate whether he was or was not coming to Northern California, The Willows Journal comes to hand with this write-up:

"Congressman Clarence F. Lea and Mrs. Lea from Washington, D. C., were in Willows Tuesday, August 28, greeting friends. They were enroute to their home in Santa Rosa.

Must Leave Soon.

"Congressman Lea is taking his vacation, but said it will have to be a short one as he must be in Washington early next week.

Praises The President.

"He spoke admiringly of President Truman and lauded him for the splendid work he had done so far as president. He predicted for him a most successful career."

FAMOUS STORY BEING RETOLD

San Francisco Columnist Adds Color To Preston

(The Cloverdale Reveille)

Awakening memories of long ago, Robert O'Brien in his column in The San Francisco Chronicle carries a story about Madam Emily Preston, who founded the village of Preston near Cloverdale.

Has New Theory.

Mr. O'Brien brings forth an angle of Madam Preston's health methods that is new to us—perhaps not to (real) old-timers. It sounds rather foolish, but all Madam Preston's methods and practices, whether religious or in relation to health, were unorthodox.

Worked On Two Lines.

"As we have been led to believe through conversations with old residents of this section, Madam Preston's methods were based on two things—faith and medicine. She was not a registered doctor, but she prescribed drugs and medicines. Although deeply religious, her beliefs along that line were not the generally accepted beliefs of most religious people.

Was Treated Tolerantly.

"Yet, seemingly, she had the sympathy of both doctors and religious people, as well as the public in general—at least she did not meet with opposition from them. She charged no fees for medical treatments, but accepted gifts, and some of the gifts, from wealthy patients, were princely. She required that her patients have faith in the teachings of the Christian religion. Pioneers here seem agreed she did much good. Some tell of cures that seem truly remarkable.

Marriage Brought Wealth.

"Some of her relatives married wealthy patients and shared in the Ringe fortune, at one time considered one of the largest in California, with great and valuable land holdings in southern California," commented The Cloverdale Reveille on Columnist O'Brien's story and then reproduced The Chronicle article which reads:

As Bob O'Brien Sees It.

"Let's get away from atom bombs for the moment. Let's consider, instead, the work of another woman, who, in her field, was quite a scientist herself. She was Mrs. Emily Preston, of Preston. The Preston estate, where she established headquarters for her sect of Covenanters, stands on a bluff overlooking Russian river, about two miles north of Cloverdale. It has just been taken over intact—complete with chapel, period furniture of the 1890's, harnesses, buggies and several barrels of medicinal port—by Fred Oster, the former Minnesota football star and U. S. C. line coach. Mr. Oster has converted the estate into a boy's summer school.

"The other day Dick Wylie passed along to us a small booklet he'd picked up during a visit to Fred Oster at the Preston manor. It contained a set of instructions on how to use the various medicines Emily passed out here and there, for what may be assumed to have been a very neat profit. There was quite a variety of them, ranging from 'liniment' and 'asafetida pills' to 'gin and garlic' and 'fasting paste'."

"Make A Sore."

"With all this variety, however, Emily's method of treatment was singularly limited. If there was anything at all the matter with you, the first thing you did was to make a sore. For heart trouble, you made a sore under the heart. For stomach trouble, you made a sore on the stomach. For lung trouble, you made a sore over the afflicted lung, and when that one was healed, you made another one on your back. If you had catarrh, a sore on the head was called for. These sores were brought about by careful application of Emily's liniment ($3 a pint) and Emily swore by them. In fact, Emily wrote, if you were feeling fine and in no pain at all, there was probably something the matter with you, and you should make a sore on general principles.

You Can't Tell.

"'When people appear to be real well, and do not feel any aches and pains, sometimes their circulation is stopping,' she wrote. 'They had better make a sore where they can handle it best. Then their circulation will improve, and that will stop the disease before it gets seated. This,' she warned, 'might be a little trying. When making sores on the body,' she continued, 'you are apt to feel very nervous, and are liable to be feverish and to have cold chills running through the body, and, in fact, to feel worse for a time than before you had any sores. But it is nothing to get excited about,' she concluded; "It is just the disease coming to the surface.' From what Wylie tells us, however, Emily's patients were asked to supplement her treatments with something else—faith, and lots of it."
